COLD HAMPERS TRADE.

April Record Below Last Year

April Record Below Last Year Principally on This Account.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Unseasonably cold weather still hampers trade and crop developments, though there is a slight improvement noted in the later direction because of the receipt of ample moisture in the Southwest. Retail business has been chiefly affected so far, but jobbers and wholesalers report that April trade as a whole does not equal that of April a year ago, though the volume of business for the four months' period is considerably in excess of 1905. Collections are likewise showing some effects of delayed trade, while improving weather conditions have been temporarily favorable. Reports as to advance orders booked for fall are quite encouraging—in excess of this time a year ago, in fact—though a few lines note position as to booking far ahead. Industry, as a whole is actively engaged. May 1st strikes, largely confined to building trades, do not appear nearly as cautious as in previous years, and the tone of the iron and copper trades appears somewhat stronger, and a greater disposition to book freely for the last half being noted in pig Iron. On the other hand, the leather trades are quiet as awhole, though more has been done in some lines, owings to output being restricted, and hides are firmer.

A féature deserving of notice is that grain and cotton prices are higher this week, continuing the advances of last week, mainly because of poor crop advices, but in the case of wheat also, because European crop advices are not much more favorable than in this country.

Something like an old-time bull market in wheat developed this week country.

Something like an old-time bull market in wheat developed this week with a net advance of two cents, after sharp upward and downward moves, brought about by conflicting crop re-

Virginia yesterday granted an appeal. in the case of the Colonna Dry Dock Company, of Norfolk, vs. Charles J.

Colonna, from the Circuit Court of Norfolk county, thus relieving the company of the obligation to carry out an alleged contract to deliver property valued at $185,000.

It was asserted by the company as reasons for appeal that since the clossing of the depositions and the hearing of the case it had come to their knowledge that soon after Colonna had entered into the contract to sell his marine rallway property he was approached by other parties who offered a large figure, and that he sold a pora large figure, and that he sold a por-tion. It was stated further that the company to whom the latter sale had been made was of less financial responsibility than the Colonna Dry Dock Company, and that additional infor-mation could be gained prior to the last hearing of the court.
